The Spanish tax system of allowances is very different from the UK. The allowances were last increased in 2007. The government has indicated that there may be some changes next year (2015) just before the elections, on the basis that the economy is showing signs of recovery. The personal tax rates were increased temporarily in 2011 and have yet to be reduced back to the original levels.

Tax Rates

The tax rates in Spain comprise two components, State Tax and Autonomous Community (AC) Tax. For the most part, it's of no real interest to most people. However, the AC's can and do vary their rate, so the rate on certain amounts can vary by a few percentage points. So for example in Andalucía the tax rate on taxable income over €120,000 is 53%, whilst in Valencia and Murcia its 50%, and in Madrid its 48.5%. The AC tax is used to partially fund the local ayuntamientos, based around the number of registered residents on the padron.

In terms of the Tax Bands below, these are based on Valencia, but for all AC's are the same up to taxable income of €53,407. I will add all the regions when I have completed the series of notes.

➤ Up to €17,707	-	24.75%
➤ €17,707 - €33,007	-	30.00%
➤ €33,007 - €53,407	-	40.00%
➤ €53,407 - €120,000	-	47.00%
➤ €120,000 - €175,000	-	50.00%
➤ €175,000 - €300,000	-	53.00%

Annuity Income

This is taxed very favourably in Spain, at Capital rates, and the taxable amount is established on your age on the day it is drawn if it's whole of life, or the duration if temporary

Whole of Life – From when payments started:

➤ Under 40	-	40% (of gross amount)
➤ Between 40 and 49	-	35%
➤ Between 50 and 59	-	28%
➤ Between 60 and 65	-	24%
➤ Between 66 and 69	-	20%
➤ Over 70	-	8%

Temporary annuities – For Duration not exceeding:

➤ 5 years	-	12%
➤ More than 5 and 10 or less	-	16%
➤ More than 10 and 15 or less	-	20%
➤ More than 15	-	25%

Tax Calculations.

Tax is calculated by deducting allowances (except the personal allowance) from total income. The remaining income is then taxed at the rate applicable to each band. So for example, if the net income after allowances is €2,000 then tax is calculated at the rate applicable up to €17,707. If net income after allowances is €20,000 then the first €17,707 is taxed at 24.75%, and the balance of €2,293 at the next rate band i.e. 30%.

This calculation provides the amount of tax payable before personal allowances. This is reduced by allowing a credit for the personal allowance due at the basic rate of 24.75%. This is so higher rate tax payers don't benefit disproportionately. The resulting tax is calculated as a percentage of taxable income. So in our example: if total income is €22,652, and taxable income before personal allowances is €20,000, total tax payable is €3,796 and the marginal tax rate is 18.98%, calculated as below.

Earnings	€22,652
Less earned income allowance	€ 2,652
Taxable Income	€20,000
Taxed @24.75%	€17,707
Taxed @30%	€ 2,293
Tax @24.75%	€ 4,382.48
Tax @30%	€ 687.90
Less personal Allowance €5,151@24.75%	€ 1,274.87
Tax Payable	€ 3,796
Marginal Rate	€3,796/€20,000
	18.98%

This latter rate is only important when you have a government pension, or other income which is only taxable in the country of receipt. This will be covered in the next note
